12.539!

Official Journal of the American Psychiatric Association

Edited by Robert Freedman, M.D.

- The American Journal of Psychiatry has an Impact Factor of 12.539 according to the recently released 2011 Journal Citation Reports® (Thomson Reuters, 2012), placing it 2nd among the 129 journals in psychiatry while still remaining the far-and-away leader in total citations.

- The American Journal of Psychiatry (AJP) is also the #2 journal in psychiatry in terms of immediacy according to Thomson Scientific's Immediacy Index. This important performance metric is calculated by dividing the number of citations to articles published in a given year by the number of articles published in that year.

- The Immediacy Index is a good measure of how quickly a given journal's articles are cited. AJP's #2 placement is a result of publishing articles that are relevant, covering current "hot" topics and cutting-edge research, and getting these findings to the field faster with AJP in Advance, the Journal's online-ahead-of-print publication protocol.

- A recent poll conducted by the BioMedical & Life Sciences Division of The Special Libraries Association identified the 100 most influential journals in all of Biology & Medicine over the last 100 years. The American Journal of Psychiatry was among those honored, the only psychiatry/psychology journal represented.

No other psychiatric journal reaches more psychiatrists with greater impact or immediacy than the one the overwhelming majority of psychiatrists considers essential: AJP.

In This Issue

The section theme of this issue of the Residents' Journal is "international health care acculturation." Nicole Zuber, M.D., discusses the importance of assessing cultural perspectives and the use of cultural formulations in clinical practice. Dr. Zuber elegantly presents data on demographic changes in the population and challenges minority populations face in accessing health care, as well as guidelines clinicians can use to better serve an increasingly diverse patient population. In a commentary, Billina R. Shaw, M.D., describes her experience working in Kenya to educate communities about depression in an effort to abolish the stigma surrounding this illness.

Cover picture

Graham Foster (b.1970). The Dogs of War (1999). Acrylic on paper 36" x 24".

Graham Foster is a Bermudian painter and sculptor. He writes:

'In 1999 I was invited to exhibit some paintings inspired by Dr Faustus for the Thomas Mann Society at the University of Eichstaett in Germany. This novel chronicles the life of a brilliant composer Adrian Leverkühn who descends into a neuro-syphilitic madness and sells his soul to the devil in exchange for musical genius. I took my inspiration from his consequent Apocalyptic hallucinations, an allegory of the turmoil in pre-World War 2 Germany. The Dogs of War focuses on the instigators of the war Machine – Hitler's thugs, the Nationalists, arms dealers and crooked politicians drawing Germany towards sinister figures representing the chaos and destruction to follow.'

Another of Graham's pictures was featured on the cover of the July 2011 issue (vol. 199, no. 1). For more information on the artist please visit www.grahamfoster.com

We are always looking for interesting and visually appealing images for the cover of the Journal and would welcome suggestions or pictures, which should be sent to Dr Allan Beveridge, British Journal of Psychiatry, 17 Belgrave Square, London SW1X 8PG, UK or bjp@rcpsych.ac.uk.
