Cover picture

Kim Noble (b. 1960) has gained international acclaim for both the originality of her work and the remarkable story of her life. From the age of 14 Kim spent over 20 years in and out of hospital until she was diagnosed with dissociative identity disorder. DID posits the existence of many identities within one person as 'alters'. Thirteen of Kim's alters paint, each with their own distinctive style, colours and themes, ranging from layered abstracts to challenging figurative works.

Longing Rose (2007) by Judy: This is a painting in a figurative series of three using the same name, Rose (both literal and symbolic), Rose, Longing Rose and Crying Rose. They show a sequence of a young woman's growing sexual and emotional awakening which leads to betrayal and loss. The state of the actual physical flower, the rose, tells what is happening to the woman of the same name. There is a sculptural impact in the thickness of the painted rose. This was painted in acrylic on canvas with a palette knife, size 91cm x 122cm.

We are always looking for interesting and visually appealing images for the cover of the Journal and would welcome suggestions or pictures, which should be sent to Dr Allan Beveridge, British Journal of Psychiatry, 17 Belgrave Square, London SW1X 8PG, UK or bjp@rcpsych.ac.uk.
