

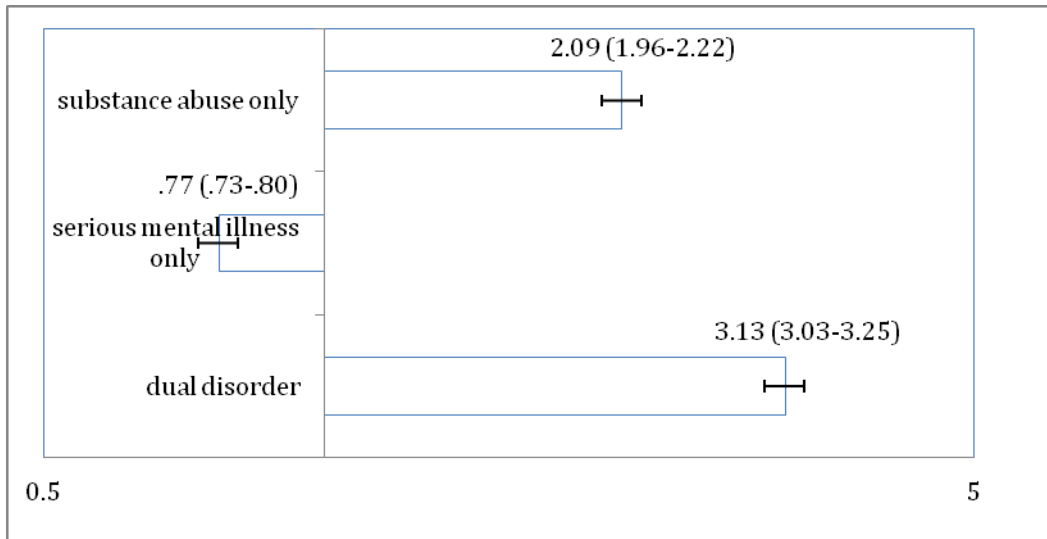

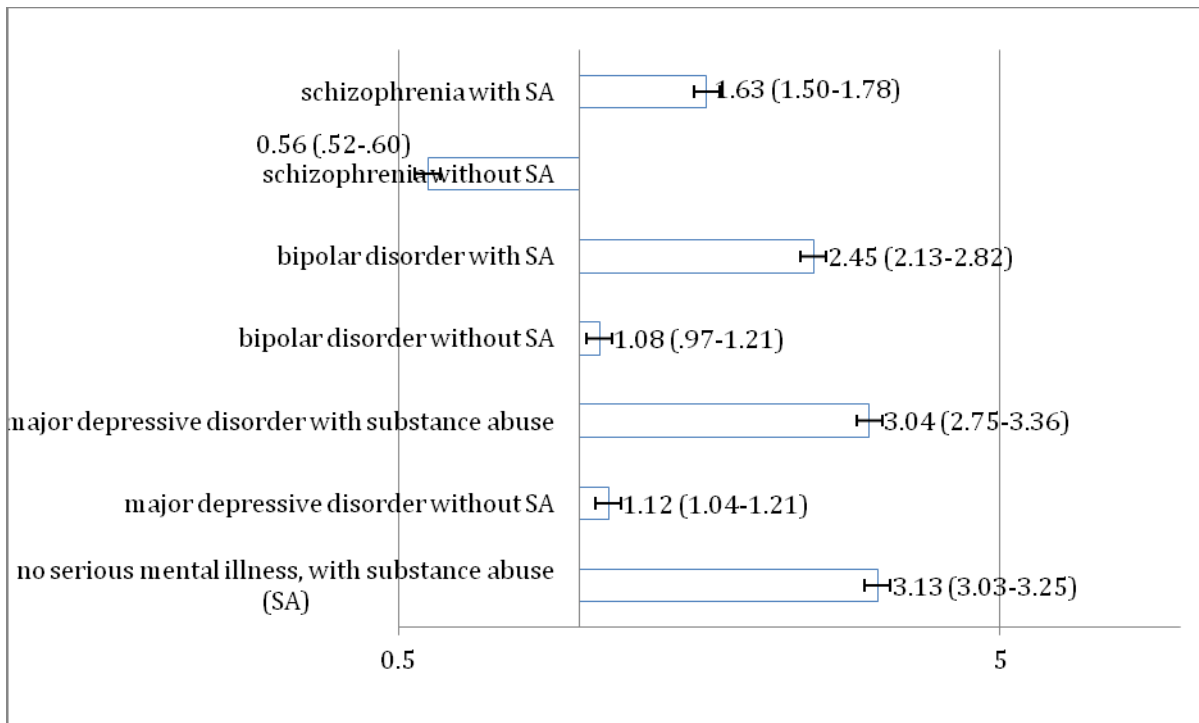

Figure 1: Adjusted^a odds of receiving a new HIV/AIDS diagnosis in 2002-2004 among three groups of Medicaid beneficiaries with diagnoses in 2001 of serious mental illness or substance abuse, relative to beneficiaries with neither ^aOdds ratios are adjusted for gender, age, race/ethnicity, dual-eligibility versus Medicaid only, and presence in 2001 of sexually transmitted disease, anxiety disorder, and depression other than major depressive disorder.

Figure 2: Adjusted^a odds of receiving a new HIV/AIDS diagnosis in 2002-2004 among seven groups of Medicaid beneficiaries with diagnoses in 2001 of serious mental illness or substance abuse, relative to beneficiaries with neither ^aOdds ratios are adjusted for gender, age, race/ethnicity, dual-eligibility versus Medicaid only, and presence in 2001 of sexually transmitted disease, anxiety disorder, and depression other than major depressive disorder.