

New Look and Features for The Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neurosciences!

We have enhanced The Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neurosciences with a bold new look and engaging features!

The Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neurosciences

Designed with the reader in mind, each issue will now have a more informative Table of Contents that provides a quick takeaway for each article to help you quickly determine items to turn to or mark for later reading.

In addition, symbols on the Table of Contents page and on the articles themselves will help you navigate to content that addresses the Core Competencies as defined by the Accreditation Council of Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) and the American Board of Medical Specialties (ABMS).

But one thing that won't change is that each issue will commence with the outstanding signature section "Windows to the Brain."

This improved reader experience continues at the journal's online portal. The journal homepage will push front and center the latest articles as soon as they are published so that cutting-edge research articles being featured in media stories are immediately discoverable.

We are excited to be bringing these enhancements to you as part of our continuing efforts to ensure we offer the most indispensable journal for professionals working at the interface between neuroscience and behavioral disorders.

Core Competencies

-  Professionalism
-  Patient Care and Procedural Skills
-  Medical Knowledge
-  Practice-based Learning and Improvement
-  Interpersonal and Communication Skills
-  Systems-based Practice

American Neuropsychiatric Association

The American Neuropsychiatric Association (ANPA), established in 1988, is an organization of professionals in neuropsychiatry, behavioral neurology, neuropsychology and the clinical neurosciences. Our mission is to improve the lives of people with disorders at the interface of psychiatry and neurology.

One strength of our organization is our diverse membership, which is comprised of professionals in all areas of neuroscience who share clinical and/or academic interests in neuropsychiatry. The interdisciplinary makeup of the membership encourages collaboration among educators, clinicians, researchers, students and trainees during research presentations, symposia, workshops, and continuing education courses. The Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neurosciences (JNCN) is the official publication of the organization, and a subscription is a benefit of membership.

ANPA holds an annual scientific meeting and provides up to 29 CME credits. Members are encouraged to submit their work for presentation at our annual meetings. Travel awards are available for promising trainee clinicians and investigators. Annual meeting abstracts and proceedings are published in JNCN.
